ARSADI - Closer

January rain and four degrees
Another blank page and an open sea
Feels like I'm drifting, drifting in my own mind
Away from whom I want me to be
And please do not let me be misunderstood

I've been on this sinking ship too long
Gotta jump off though the tide is strong
Fight the currents, try to stay afloat and find
A solid ground, where I feel I belong
And now I am wishing swimming will do me good

Closer, I feel it now
Closer, a new sun breaks the horizon
Keep telling myself that changing is golden

Closer, I'll get there somehow
Closer, I sense my confidence rising
Telling myself this change is gold

Slow riddance and a deportee
A hard case of planning fallacy
A bad listener, like talking to a brick wall
I'm too often buried in my screens
And I keep on hurting the ones I care about

I have always tried to blame the world
Never bothered looking inside first
I'm not saying I got it figured out now
But finally got the gear out of reverse
So I'll keep swimming until I lose all my doubts

Closer, I feel it now
Closer, a new sun breaks the horizon
Keep telling myself that changing is golden

Closer, I'll get there somehow
Closer, I sense my confidence rising
Telling myself this change is gold
