ARSADI - Soleil Levant

Shoot you out from 500 cannons
And one million guns
Through the cracks, even brighter
Than one thousand suns

You don't need to blow their minds
Or paint soleil levant
I’m sure you’ll end up fine
In Musée Marmottan

I know you’ll learn to fly
After you dare to fall
Just need to realise
One step is the start of it all

Drop your pride, drop your sanity
Don't deny that you want to Break your mind, break your boundaries
You’ll forget what you can’t do

You don’t need to figure out how to make it to the sun
you might crash from greater heights
When the wax on your wings is done

But don’t let your spirit die
When your doubts and demons call
You just need to realise,
That one step is the start of it all

You don't need to blow their minds
Or paint soleil levant
I’m sure you’ll end up fine
In Musée Marmottan

I know you’ll learn to fly
After you dare to fall
You just need to realise
That one step is the start of it all